8.8. The initial margin and/or margin for the locked positions is fixed when the position is opened.

8.9. The Client undertakes to independently monitor the level of the required margin on his trading account.

8.10. The Company is not responsible for Stop Out on the account, which occurred as a result of late receipt of funds to the Client's account.

8.11. The order of opening a position.

8.11.1. When submitting an order to open an item, the Client must specify the following mandatory parameters:

8.11.1.1. The name of the instrument.

8.11.1.2. The amount of the trade.

8.11.2. To open a position by means of a client terminal without using an adviser, the Client needs to click the Buy or Sell button at the moment when the Company's stream prices meet his expectations.

8.11.3. To open a position by means of a client terminal using an adviser, a transaction is performed at the current quotation.

8.11.4. To open a position via a client terminal without using an Expert Adviser, the Client makes a request. After receiving the quotation (Bid/Ask), the Client has the opportunity to open a position by clicking the Buy button or the Sell button. The Company has the right to withdraw the quotation if the Client does not send the instruction within three seconds after receiving the quotation and also if the quotation becomes invalid as a result of the market movement.

8.11.5. To open a position via a client terminal using an Expert Adviser, a request is generated. If the quotation offered by the Company differs from the quotation of the adviser by not more than the maximum deviation, the adviser sends to the server an order to open the position on the quotation offered by the Company.

8.11.6. When a Client orders the server to open a position, it automatically checks the status of the trading account for available margin for the open position. This leads to:

8.11.6.1. A new item is conditionally added to the list of open positions.

8.11.6.2. A new level of required margin is determined for the aggregate client position, including a conditionally added new position, at the current market prices at the time of verification.

8.11.6.3 Floating profits / losses for all open positions are calculated at current market prices, except for a conditionally added position.

8.11.6.4 A new amount of free margin is calculated.

8.11.6.5 Based on the results of the calculation of the new free margin, it is decided to open a position.

8.11.6.5.1. In the event that the free margin is greater than or equal to zero, the total client position with regard to the conditionally added position does not exceed the established limit for this type of account, the position is opened. The opening of the position is accompanied by the corresponding entry in the server log-file.

8.11.6.5.2. If the free margin is greater than or equal to zero and the total client position, taking into account the conditionally added position, exceeds the established limit for this type of account, the position does not open.

8.11.6.5.3. If the free margin is less than zero, the Company has the right not to open a position.

8.11.7. If at the moment when the Company processes the Client's orders, the current quote on the instrument changes, then the Company has the right to offer a new price. In this case, the "Requote" window appears. A client who wants to open a position at the newly proposed price should answer "Ok" within 3 seconds, while the quotation remains relevant. In this case, the order is returned to the server and passes all the prescribed stages of verification. If, during the time of the quotation's actuality, the Client does not accept the new price, then this is considered a refusal of the Client from the transaction.

8.11.8. The Client's order to open a position is considered to be processed and the position is opened after the corresponding entry appears in the server's log-file.

8.11.9. Each open position in the trading platform is assigned a ticket.

8.11.10. The Client agrees that the Company needs some reasonable time to perform an order.

8.11.11. For the locked positions, the "Margin for Locked Positions" parameter is used, for nonlocated items is used the "Initial Margin" parameter calculated by the weighted average (by volume) price of the non-traded positions; Margin calculation algorithm: $\text{Free Margin} = \text{Balance} - \text{New Margin} + \text{Floating Profit} - \text{Floating Loss}$. In the event that the set value of the maximum deviation is different from zero and the difference between the original and the new quotation offered by the dealer is less than or equal to the specified maximum deviation value, the server does not send a new quote to the client terminal, but opens the position. Thus, the opening price in a given range can be either lower or higher than the original quotation.

8.11.12. The Client agrees that the Company has the right to establish requirements on the amount of the pledge and margin.

8.11.13. To close a position by means of a client terminal without using an Expert Adviser, the Client should click the "Close..." button at the moment when the Company's streaming prices suit him.

8.11.14. To close a position by means of a client terminal using an adviser, the order to close a position must be given at the current quotation.

8.11.15. To close a position by means of a client terminal without using an Expert Adviser, the Client makes a request. After receiving the quotation (Bid/Ask), the Client, who wants to close the position at the offered price, should within 3 seconds, while the quotation remains actual, click the "Close..." button. If during the time that the quotation is relevant, the Client does not give the Company any effective order, the Company is entitled to withdraw the quotation.

8.11.16. A request is generated to close the position via the client terminal using the Expert Adviser. If the quotation proposed by the Company differs from the quotation of the adviser by not more than the maximum deviation value, the adviser sends an order to the server to close the position on the quotation offered by the Company.

8.11.17. If there are two or more locked positions in the list of open positions in the trading account, when creating a request or order to close any of them in the "Type" dropdown list the option Close By is added. After selecting this option one or several open positions opened in the opposite direction appear. After selecting the desired item from the list, the Close # ... by # ... button is activated, by clicking on which the Client closes locked positions of one volume or partially closes two locked positions of different volumes. In this case, the smaller position and the symmetrical part of the larger position are closed. At the same time, a new position in the direction of the larger of the two remains open. A new ticket is assigned to it.

8.11.18. If there are two or more locked positions in the list of open positions for a trading account, then an additional option "Multiple Close By" appears in an dropdown list "Type". This happens when a request or order to close any of the positions is formed. After the option is chosen, there is a list of all positions for this instrument and the button "Multiple Close By" is activated. By clicking on this button the Client closes all locked positions for this instrument. At the same time, a new position opened at the same direction as a position of a larger total volume remains open. A new ticket is assigned to this new position.

8.11.19. The Client's order to close the position is considered processed, and the position is closed after the corresponding entry appears in the server's log-file.

8.11.20. The order to close the position will be rejected by the Company if it was received for processing until the first quote on this instrument appears in the trading platform at the time of the trade opening on the market. At the same time, the message "Off quotes" appears in the client terminal window.

8.11.21. The order to close the position will be rejected by the Company if it was received for processing at the moment when the order in the closed position (Stop Loss or Take Profit) is in the execution queue. At the same time, the message "Off quotes" appears in the client terminal window.

8.11.22. The Client agrees that the Company takes some reasonable time to execute the order.
